for the 1th quarter of 2026

COMMERCIAL BUSINESS INDICATORS

- Throughput amounted to 624,927 tons in the first quarter of 2026, indicating a 9% increase compared to the same period in the prior year (2025:573,289 tons).

- a) The overall increase in throughput is primarily attributed to a 47% rise in general cargo volume compared to the same period of 2025. The most significant contributors to this growth are a 41% increase in container handling, as well as the handling of wind turbine components, steel sheets, and reinforcing steel, which are not present in the first quarter of 2025.

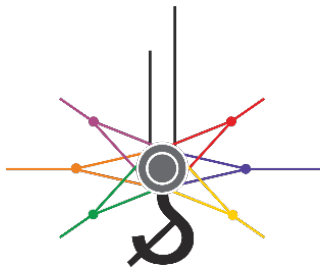

The increase in container traffic indicates higher demand for container capacity, improved terminal utilization, and the potential for further growth in this business segment.

The growth in general cargo volumes is an important indicator, as this segment typically generates higher added value. It also reflects increased competitiveness of the Port, given that growth in general cargo is usually a sign that the port is attracting cargo that can choose among several competing ports in the region.

- b) Bulk cargo throughput decreased by 18% compared to the same period in the previous year. The most significant contributor to this decrease is a 90% drop in coal volume. However, compared to the same period last year, an increase in sugar and coke handling has been recorded.

The decline in bulk cargo volumes was influenced by circumstances previously communicated to investors as summarized below:

- 1.) Adverse market developments leading to the suspension of trading activities, as communicated to investors in a letter dated 28 March 2025.
 - In its role as buyer, the Company resolved to suspend its trading segment in response to widespread macroeconomic instability and escalating geopolitical tensions, including the introduction of new tariffs. Given this volatility, the Company has redirected its focus toward its core business operations to optimize results while minimizing exposure to risk.
 - Market instability has caused considerable turbulence across business processes. This is reflected in comparative throughput data across the procurement and consumption of energy resources, steel production, and the manufacturing and sale of metallurgical coke.
- 2.) Opening of bankruptcy proceedings in Koksara d.o.o., Lukavac, about which the Company informed investors in a letter dated 10 December 2025.

INTERIM MANAGEMENT REPORT

for the 1th quarter of 2026

Impact of the Geopolitical Environment on the Company's Operations

The global geopolitical environment in recent years has been marked by heightened instability, which has had a significant impact on international trade, logistics flows, and commercial conditions in the port services sector. Two dominant sources of disruption—the prolonged Russia-Ukraine conflict and the escalation of tensions and military activities in the Middle East, including the involvement of the United States and Israel—have shaped the environment in which the Company operates.

The Russia-Ukraine conflict has led to shifts in global supply chains, rerouting of trade flows, and increased transportation, insurance, and energy costs. In earlier periods, this resulted in higher cargo volumes directed toward Adriatic ports, including the Company. At the same time, disruptions in supply chains and market volatility have driven increases in the prices of raw materials, equipment, and logistics services, as well as heightened supplier requirements for advance payments and extended delivery times.

Additional uncertainty arises from the conflict in the Middle East, which affects the stability of energy markets and security conditions in maritime transport. Higher security premiums, occasional blockages of key maritime routes, and changes in shipping company itineraries exert additional pressure on operating costs and the availability of transport capacity.

A particularly pronounced impact on the Company's operations stems from rising energy and fuel prices, given that port operations rely heavily on diesel-powered machinery and equipment (cranes, forklifts, terminal vehicles, and other cargo-handling equipment). Increases in fuel prices directly raise operating costs, reduce margins, and require additional planning of consumption, maintenance, and procurement of energy sources. In an environment of heightened price volatility, the Company must maintain a higher level of operational readiness and liquidity to ensure the uninterrupted performance of port activities.

Management continuously monitors international developments, adjusts procurement and operational processes, and implements measures aimed at preserving liquidity, ensuring business stability, and managing risks in conditions of elevated global uncertainty.

The Company has no financial exposure to Russian institutions and does not conduct transactions with Russian entities.

Despite these challenges, the Company continues to maintain a sound liquidity position, fully sufficient to meet all due obligations.
