Ad.2. According to Article 308, Paragraphs 4 and 5 of the Companies Act and Paragraph 39 of the Statute of ĐURO ĐAKOVIĆ Group Plc. Slavonski Brod ("Company"), the Management Board of the Company submits to the General Assembly of the Company

The Management Board Report

on reasons for complete exclusion of the priority rights from the existing shareholders in the course of subscription for new shares of the Company

On 3rd July 2014 the General Assembly of Đuro Đaković Holding Plc. (now ĐURO ĐAKOVIĆ GROUP Plc., hereinafter referred to as: "Company") reached the Decision on increasing the nominal capital of the Company from the amount of 64.741.360,00 HRK for the amount of 194.224.080,00 HRK at the most, to the amount of 258.965.440,00 HRK at the most.

Finally, in all three subscription rounds 4.359.616 new shares were subscribed, i.e. 87.192.320,00 HRK were paid in, which clearly means that the subscribed amount did not improve the financing sources of Đuro Đaković group to the extent that had been planned. The nominal capital of the Company after additional capitalisation is 151.933.680,00 HRK, and it was divided into 7.596.684 registered shares, each with the nominal value of 20,00 HRK.

After additional capitalisation was carried out in 2014, during which part of the capital necessary for the implementation of successful restructuring of Đuro Đaković Group that has achieved positive net results for two quarters in a row, was raised, it is necessary to significantly improve the financing sources by raising fresh capital on the market as soon as possible, in order to avoid changes in the future business plans.

The Management Board of the Company believes that the previous basic financial report of the Company, relevant references, as well as the reputation of the Company not only in domestic, but also in the foreign market, undoubtedly indicate the development potential of the Company. However, within the implemented Company restructuring and its consequences, the Management Board believes that it is necessary to conclude the comprehensive process of additional capitalisation, in order to raise the previously planned capital and increase competitiveness in domestic, as well as in the foreign market.

Based on the decision of the General Assembly of the Company from 21st March 2017 the subscription for new shares of the Company was implemented, but failed, i.e. the minimum Success Threshold has not been reached. The Company's Management Board believes that is it, above all, result of a short-term disturbance on the capital market, which influenced the interest and the ability of particularly domestic, but also foreign investors, to participate in the nominal capital increase of the Company.

The Management Board of the Company believes that the economic circumstances and primarily the situation in the capital market will become stable enough for the Company to raise additional capital and successfully implement the nominal capital increase of the Company in the repeated nominal capital increase procedure.

Therefore, by acting according to Article 277 Paragraph 1 of the Companies Act and paying attention to the Company's interests, the Management Board of the Company summoned the General Assembly, during which it proposed reaching the decision on the nominal capital increase by issuing ordinary shares and by using the right to the exception from the obligation of publishing prospectus regarding the public offer, according to Article 351 Paragraph 1 Item 3 of the existing Capital Market Act.

Using the exception from making, approving and publishing the prospectus mentioned above would not be possible by itself, if the priority rights of the existing shareholders for subscription of new shares had not been excluded, considering the fact that the exception mentioned above refers only to security offers sent to investors who will pay for the securities the amount of at least 100.000 EUR in national currency (HRK) equivalent, per investor, for each individual offer.

In this respect, if all existing shareholders were given priority rights for the subscription of shares, such procedure would necessarily be connected with extremely large implementation costs and long lasting capital flow, having in mind legal deadlines that necessary have to be met. Therefore, in order to economise the business activities and maximally accelerate the procedure of raising fresh capital, the Management Board reached the decision to use the right for the above mentioned exception from the need to make a prospectus, by excluding the priority rights for subscription and payment from the Company shareholders. Nevertheless, all existing Company shareholders will have the possibility to participate in the new share subscription procedure under the same conditions as other investors.

As it was initially indicated in this Report, the Management Board explains the proposed use of the right for exclusion of priority rights from the existing shareholders during the new share subscription procedure by more demanding, longer lasting and more expensive public offer procedure, which would prevent the Company from improving its financial position in time.

While deciding this, the Management Board kept in mind the fact that, while additional capitalisation was carried out in 2014, all Company shareholders were given the possibility to express their interest with priority rights for during subscription of Company shares, and everyone who expressed the interest was considered and included in the nominal capital increase procedure. However, since in the process of additional capitalisation that was carried out in 2014 the existing shareholders subscribed only 4.009.616 new shares, i.e. 80.192.320,00 HRK were paid, the Management Board thinks that it is not realistic to expect sufficient number of payments from the existing shareholders to reach the necessary minimum successfulness of new share issue. Moreover, during the procedure of additional capitalisation that was carried out in 2014, the total amount of payments that were below 800.000,00 HRK, which, according to the Management Board's proposal would this time be the minimum payment per investor, was not financially significant for the Company.

Considering the shareholders structure of the Company, additional capitalisation without exclusion of priority rights from the existing shareholders could not be carried out without previously making a prospectus and having it approved. Carrying out public offer without using the above mentioned exception from the obligation to previously make the prospectus and to have it approved, as it is specified in the Capital Market Act, and which necessary leads to the exclusion of priority rights, would only prolong the time during which the additional capitalisation would be carried out.

A successful and prompt completion of the nominal capital increase procedure would undoubtedly create preconditions for development, new investments and employment, as well as capturing new markets. A successful implementation of the nominal capital increase would significantly improve all key balance indices and create necessary positive effects for the future business activities and for the development of the Company. Postponing the beginning of the additional capitalisation procedure in the sense of optimisation of the existing debt level of the Company might reflect in the financial position of the Company, and in its competitiveness in domestic and in the foreign market, and consequently in making additional values for the shareholders. Due to the unfavourable influence of the prolonged additional capitalisation procedure on the implementation of the Company's business plans, potential prolonged procedure might ultimately have a negative influence on the financial successfulness of the additional capitalisation, if it was postponed.

The nominal capital increase of the Company will be carried out by payments in money and by issuing at least 2.500.000 up to 7.600.000 new ordinary shares at the most, each with the nominal value of 20,00 HRK. Final price, for which new shares will be issued, will depend on the demand shown by the investors and it will be determined on the basis of offers that were received, taking into consideration the provisions of Article 164 Paragraph 2 of the Companies Act. Final price of New Shares will be determined and announced by the Management Board of the Company, within two (2) business days after the expiry of the subscription period.

It is important to emphasise that, taking into consideration the situation in which the Company currently is, through the proposed additional capitalisation procedure the Management Board wants to continue the positive growth trends and increase competitiveness of the Company. Having in mind solely and exclusively the interest of the Company, the goal of the additional capitalisation is to raise fresh capital as soon as possible by significant capital investment in the Company, with the costs for the Company that are as low as possible. Therefore, the Management Board believes that the complete exclusion of priority rights from the existing shareholders in the course of subscription of new shares of the Company under the above described conditions is in the best interest of the Company.

The Management Board Report is taken notice of.

Parameter in the Records before the expiry of the subscription period. If the amount that had been paid does not equal to that amount, the payment will be considered valid, but the smaller of the two amounts will be considered as the 1.  - The offer with the smallest Individual demand will be excluded from the allocation, i.e. that investor will be allocated zero (0) New Shares (if there are more such offers, the one that has the latest subscription date will be excluded.);
 - The procedure from Item 5.c. is repeated successively, by excluding one by one offer from the allocation and by carrying out proportional reduction from Item 5.b. until the decidable allocation to the remaining investors and fulfilment of all conditions from 5.b.

In that case, the Company will not bear the costs of payment transactions, nor will it pay interests to the investors.

If the nominal capital increase is not registered in the court register within nine (9) months from the day on which this Decision was reached, the statement on registration (Record) will no longer oblige the investor, and within 8 (eight) business days after the expiry of the specified deadline the Company will refund the money to the investors. In that case, the Company will not bear the costs of payment transactions, nor will it pay interests to the investors.

XIV.
