Zagreb Stock Exchange

The first trading day on the then trading system Xetra Classic ver. 16 was July 7, 2017. Since then, the trading system has undergone several changes and improvements, and the Exchange currently uses the Xetra T7 trading system. By changing the provider and maintainer of the trading system in 2017, the Exchange significantly reduced annual costs from the first year of using Xetra, but began to use the same trading system as the Ljubljana Stock Exchange, which increased the possibility of connecting the two markets, and also received a system that meets the legal requirements of the MIFID II directive.

Continuing the good cooperation with WBAG, the Exchange will continue to inform, educate, and be available to all users, primarily members of the Exchange, about all changes and news related to the trading system.
